Read more Photo-Illustration: by Stevie Remsburg; Photos: Getty The best way to do something nice for your skin without spending a lot of money (aside from drinking water and breathing) is to use a sheet mask. Sheet masks are a great gateway product into Korean beauty, and you only need a few dollars and 20 minutes to get dewier, glowier (and damper) skin. Here, a roundup of the best Korean masks, as distinguished by overwhelmingly positive internet reviews and my personal experience - including sleeping masks that smell like watermelon, sheet masks made of snail, and cream masks that feel truly luxurious. Dermask Water Jet Vital Hydra Solution™ $6 Photo: Courtesy of the Vendor If you want to leave the plane with better skin than when you boarded, this is the mask for you. My skin not only feels extremely hydrated after applying this but looks plump and rejuvenated, too. The active ingredients strengthen the skin barrier and offer long-lasting moisture, making it useful when your trip involves flying to a drastically different climate. - Asia Milla Ware, Fashion and Beauty Writer COSRX Ultimate Nourishing Rice Overnight Spa Mask $18 If your face feels especially thirsty, rough, or as if it just needs to spend some quality time encased in a hydrating cloud, try this creamy mask that is known for its revitalizing powers. The formula of conditioning rice extract and brightening niacinamide leaves all skin types feeling deeply moisturized but never greasy. Smooth it on before you hit the hay, and you'll wake up with soft, dewy skin. - K.H. With this pack, you get 24 sheet masks for $12, which is roughly 50 cents a mask. You could sheet mask every day like Michelle Yeoh if you wanted to! And the Amazon reviews (2,000 of them) all demonstrate that this is a pretty nice thing. - K.H. Leaders Insolution Aquaringer (10 Piece) $21 A friend's husband brought these back for me from Korea, and now I'm looking for more smugglers. This is best for dry skin types as it's very, very wet (which I know, sounds a bit ridiculous, like being "very pregnant"), and doesn't play the best under makeup. But if you don't wear a lot of makeup and have slacked a bit in your skin care, this offers a good quick fix. It takes only about 20 minutes to make your skin look better than it did before. - K.H. CNP Quick Soothing SOS Mask $7 This mask takes two steps. I wasn't thrilled when I learned about this, because who needs more work? But it's worth it. First, there's a pre-treatment hydrating ampoule handily located in the top partition of the sheet. Then once you finish slathering that over your face, you apply the sheet mask, which is soaked in even more hydrating liquid. After using this one, my face seemed to be lit with one of those flattering rose light bulbs for practically an entire day. - K.H. DR. JART+ Shake & Shot™ Rubber Masks $12 For this one, you mix up the ingredients sort of like Betty Crocker cake batter to create a rubber mask. It sounds like a living Tom Cruise's-mask-in-Vanilla Sky nightmare. But once you get past that part, it's actually very hydrating! I loved wearing my creepy rubber mask around the apartment, and I especially enjoyed peeling it off to reveal soft, plump skin. This is a fun group activity to do with friends who like things that are a little creepy. - K.H. Original Glow Sheet Mask Set $79 Photo: Courtesy of the Vendor If you hate scented sheet masks, these are for you. Peach & Lily founder Alicia Yoon, who has eczema, formulated these to be especially great for sensitive skin. They're free of denatured alcohol, synthetic fragrances, parabens, sulfates, mineral oil, and formaldehyde. - K.H. Glow Recipe Watermelon Glow Sleeping Mask $45 If you love the best flavor of Jolly Rancher (watermelon, obviously), then this is for you. It contains real watermelon extract (rich in aminos), hyaluronic acid, and AHAs to gently hydrate and gently exfoliate. This is a sleeping mask with a gel texture that you put on over your moisturizer and wash off in the morning. On Sephora, it has over 2,000 reviews in which people rave about how much they love it. - K.H. Too Cool for School Egg Cream Mask Hydration $20 Having egg on your face is actually a good thing when you're wearing this best-selling mask. It has everything a face could want: hydrating coconut water, brightening niacinamide, vitamin C-rich camu-camu extract, and nourishing and moisturizing egg extracts, all packed into an ultrasoft sheet that gives your face a ten-to-20-minute hug. - K.H. Sulwhasoo First Care Activating Sheet Mask $34 I've been talking about this luxurious mask for years and it still holds up. Please tell a rich relative of yours to give it to you for the holidays. The mask is as thin and fine as a Communion wafer and drenched in so much essence that it feels like it dissolves into your skin. Using it at home is even better than a facial, and leaves my skin looking bright, vibrant, and less haunted. - K.H. Klairs Midnight Blue Calming Sheet Mask $3 Photo: Courtesy of the Vendor This mask is dubbed the "sunburn savior" because of the way it treats redness. It's formulated to soothe irritation and lowers the skin's temperature with the use of erythritol, leaving you cooled and glowing. - A.M.W Rosé Resurfacing Facial Mask $56 Photo: Courtesy of the Vendor I'm always hesitant when a mask has a fragrance, but this tingling AHA mask hasn't disappointed me yet. It is blended with glycolic and lactic acids, which work together to lift dead skin cells, leaving the texture of my skin immediately feeling softer and happier. - A.M.W This article was originally published August 14, 2019.
