It came out at the very start of 2013, the same time as 'Rajdhani Express'.A financially struggling lower-middle class couple win a trip to a Fiji resort, which they readily take. Then Paresh Rawal as Mr. Khan offers them to appear on his game show, where contestants have to do things they find repulsive in order to win 21 crore (a lot of money, basically).Sure, at first they have to kiss in public, then they have to eat non-veg, which they hate, and the money rolls into the bank account. But as things keep going, it's obvious that something strange is happening, and things are quite right. After a while, the couple want to leave, desperately, but Mr.Khan keeps them under wraps. He seems to know more about them than they do.As the game goes on it becomes more and more intrusive into the couples' lives and more repugnant, and the more danger there is associated with leaving. But what is really going on here will be a big shock to everyone involved (there is a clue earlier when you see a bucket of paint falling).The movie works as a romance, as suspense and social commentary is thick and fast, and only at the very end, after the movie has ended does it seem a little 'preachy' rather than entertaining, but a good social message. A thought-provoking and emotional film.3 people found this helpfulSee all reviews At first, a couple is thrilled to participate in a game show with a huge cash prize, until they find out that the game isn't for fun, it's for survival. 7.2 105 min This article is about the film. It is named after Article 21 of the Indian Constitution, which talks about the protection of life and personal liberty.[2] The movie features Rajeev Khandelwal, Tina Desai and Paresh Rawal and touches upon the pertinent social issue of ragging. The movie's soundtrack was composed by Gajendra Verma, Neeraj Shridhar and Sachin Gupta.[5] The film performed above average at the box office.[4] Plot Vivaan and Siya Agasthi struggle to make ends meet. The couple wins a trip to the beautiful island nation of Fiji in a lucky draw. The holiday is fully sponsored, with luxurious hotel accommodation and fine dinners. The duo flies to Fiji to celebrate their wedding anniversary and encounter the charming Mr. Khan at the resort. Mr. Khan invites the couple to participate in a live game show called Table No. 21. He tells them that the winner of the game bags a staggering amount of ₹210 million as prize money. He outlines the rules which are eight personal questions asked that must be answered truthfully, and following this, one must complete a task related to the question. The couple decides to enter the game show. At first, the questions seem easy, but as the game progresses, the tasks become increasingly horrific connected to their college life. Vivaan's final task is to murder an individual. He is led to a room, where he is to face his target. When he sees the person he must kill, he recognizes him from his past. A flashback shows Vivaan and his friends ragging a boy, named Akram. The severe bullying made Akram mentally challenged. Back in the present, it is revealed that Akram is Mr. Khan's son and that Mr. Khan's intention was to exact revenge and show Vivaan and Siya the damage inflicted on Akram by their actions. Mr. Khan tells them that they are free to go but their sins will follow them everywhere. The movie ends as Vivaan and Siya are still shocked – crying and regretting their choices. Cast Paresh Rawal as Abdul Razaq Khan Rajeev Khandelwal as Vivaan Agasthi Tina Desai as Siya Agasthi Sama Amin Sheikh as Neeti Asheesh Kapur as Bittoo Dhruv Ganesh as Akram Khan Hanif Hilal as Ghouse (Khan's bodyguard) Seema Sheoran actress in Mann Mera song Manjunath Gaddi as a Chotu Nishant malkani as masked man Soundtrack Song Title Singer Length "If You Lie You Die" Neeraj Shridhar, Jaspreet Jazs 04:01 "Mann Mera" (Remix) Gajendra Verma 03:19 "Mann Mera" Gajendra Verma 02:43 "O Sajna" (Remix) Gajendra Verma, Puja Thaker 02:47 "O Sajna" Gajendra Verma, Puja Thaker 04:59 Reception Critics have praised the story but have criticized the way the issue of ragging is kept under wraps.[6][7] On review aggregator website Rotten Tomatoes, the film holds an approval rating of 54% based on 3 reviews.[8] Indiaglitz.com says that "Table No. 21 keeps you engaged right from start to the finish. If the beginning portions are frothy, middle portions turn thrilling, post-interval is dramatic and ultimately the narrative turns dark before reaching a shocking end."[9] Ankur Pathak of Rediff.com says that "Table No. 21 should be watched for the reactive social commentary that it is, and should not be misconceived as a vigilante film." Rated it 3 out of 5 stars.[10] Madhureeta Mukherjee of The Times of India rated the film 3/5 stars.[11] Mansha Rastogi of Nowrunning.com says that "Table No. 21, although may not be a completely out of the box, never before concept but it's the execution of the story and the acting that makes this film a one time watch."[12] Prasanth of Movieorange.com says that "Table No 21 is an excellent thriller, with a good message." Rated it 8 out of 10.[13] Over the years the movie has been considered a cult movie for its unique concept. Box office Upon release, Table No. 21 saw a slow start at the Box Office in its first week. It collected ₹157.3 million net over the weekend, while the four-day collection was approximately ₹67.5 million net.[14] The movie earned ₹101.0 million in the first week of its release,[15] and after a two-week-long run, 2013's first release stood at a total of ₹121.0 million in India and ₹180.0 million worldwide.[16] References ↑ "Table No. 21 Review".
